Now

With F.M.L.

To some, it is important to have all the things one could desire, but to all, sooner or later, it is essential to see another side.

NOW-NOW-NOW

SPEAKING OF CLARITY

Among all the books, the Bible has been subject to more translation, reinterpretation and scholarship than any in the Western Culture. Its very span is contradictory. The latest treatment is a 20th century volume using modern language instead of the standard King James "thee and thous" of Elizabethian England.

If ever the wisdom and inspiration of people should be understandable, it is now. Tradition somehow had slowed this process even while computers and rockets accelerate to greater speed and cosmic distance.

The mysteries of people, nature and the Whole surrounding and permeating us are still fascinating and unfathomable.

Listen to this translation of Proverbs 30. 18, 19:

"There are four things that are too mysterious for me to understand:
an eagle flying in the sky,
a snake moving on a rock,
a ship finding its way over the sea,
and a man and a woman falling in love."

For us, who can still see a clear sky and open space, it touches the basics of people never quite explained by science, which never runs out of explanations nor things to explain.

NOW-NOW-NOW

I don't know about you, but my mind is relaxed when I'm busy in the physical world. We can stand only so much solitude and we can stand only so many people.

Finding that balance is easy when you project your plans into reality and see how good they are. If they are a bit slow, be patient in your impatience.

I get angry at a tennis ball.

Daniel Urges Constitutional Reform

State Rep. Price Daniel Jr. Wednesday urged all Texans, regardless of political philosophy or party affiliation, to vote November 7 for Amendment 4 providing for revision of the Texas Constitution.

Speaking before a large crowd of Cameron Rotarians and their guests, Daniel said there is a serious crisis facing the state which should be of concern to all Texans.

He cited the Sharpstown stock scandals as the main thing that has shattered the people's confidence in state government, and added that other allegations not related to the stock scandals have also served to destroy Texans' trust.

Daniel said there are "two roads that the state might take to put an end to such nationally publicized occurrences -- one is that of indictments, trials and convictions and the other is that the system itself be reformed."

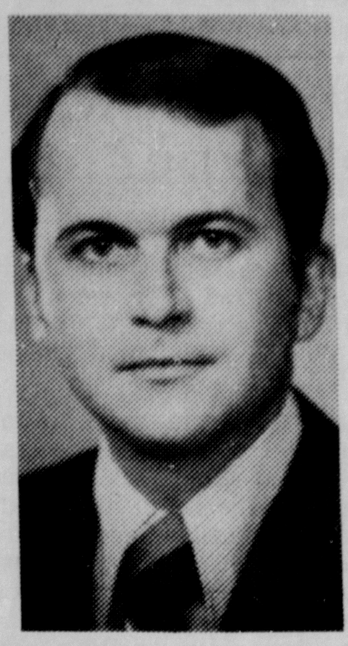
He spoke of the buildup of power under one man as Speaker of the House which was used to pay off, punish, and reward, Daniel said the role of the Spaker must be re-evaluated, and feeling is that the Speaker should be limited to one term, to avoid that buildup of power.

He said meetings were held in secret with lack of public notice and tax dollars were used to reward or punish, resulting in a virtual "dictatorship," causing members of the House to lose their independence.

"Modernizing our Texas Constitution is absolutely essential if we are to make our State government more responsive to the needs of all Texans and more responsible in transacting the State's business. Constitutional revision is particularly important in our efforts to reform the legislative process," Daniel said.

"Next session we can and will make the operation of the Legislature more open, efficient and democratic by adopting new rules and enacting reform legislation, but we cannot complete the job with our hands tied by present constituional restraints and outright prohibitions," he said.

Texans have expressed their desire for legislative reform at the polls in May and June, Daniel continued, adding that over half of the Senate and House will consist of new members when the next Legislature convenes.



REP. PRICE DANIEL JR.

He said that new legislation is needed to control the system so that it doesn't "get into another mess." Reform legislation will lead to more openness, efficiency, and democracy in the House, with access to public documents, an enforced open meeting law, and an ethics law.

"Our Texas Constitution has had to be amended more than 200 times," Daniel said. "It now contains 53,000 words and is five times as long as the United State Constitution. Many of its archaic provision retard, restrict and hinder, rather than encourage, the efficient and effective operation of our State government."

He urged his listeners to give "careful consideration" to Amendment 4, which would give the Legislature authority to establish a Constitutional Revision Commission and to convene as a Constitutional Convention in January, 1974.

Max McClaren introduced Rep. Dan Kubiak, who introduced Daniel. Kubiak said Daniel already has 120 pledges for his being elected next Speaker of the House.

Daniel cited Kubiak's efforts in the Legislature, saying "He is a man of honesty and integrity."

Area Roundup

McGregor Eyes Bond Election

McGREGOR

A million dollar bond election to update McGregor schools is in the future, Supt. James T. Baker told ex-students at their banquet. He said the bond issue will depend upon the acquisition of the government land south of town and the ability of the school district to handle the financial venture. General plans call for moving the athletic facilities to the new site, and use the balance as an ag department farm. Eventually a new high school is planned for the area.

Lake Claims Victim

SOMERVILLE

Somerville Lake claimed it first drowning victim of the year when a 17-year-old Bryan youth drwoned while swimming near Welch Park. He was David F. Zimmerman. He was last seen after swimming from Welch Park to a nearby island about 11 a.m. It is believed he went down as he attempted to swim back to Welch Park from the island.

Robertson Deer Plentiful

CALDWELL

Deer season will open November 18 in Robertson County and the game warden has noted that there are a lot more deer, in better condition, roaming the fields and wooded areas this season. Limit is two bucks with a buck being described as having a forked antler. Doe and spike deer may not be killed this year in the county.

Daylight Theft Nets Diamonds

ROCKDALE

Six diamond rings with a total estimated value of $1,100 were stolen from a Rockdale jewelry store while the store was open. The daylight theft occurred at Faver Jewelry. Richard Faver, owner of the firm, said that a display pad containing the six rings was taken from a shelf in a display counter sometime between 10 a.m. and 12 noon. The ring pad was found at a telephone booth outside a downtown cafe.

Policeman Shortage Acute

WACO

As Waco's crime rate rises, police here are caught in a paradox of too few men, too much crime and not enough time for preventive patrol. A recent study of the department by the International Association of Chiefs of Police found the patrol force to be "seriously undermanned," and from the patrol force, the manpower shortage passes along the line of command to other positions which are filled from patrol ranks.

Emergency Ordinances Passed

TEMPLE

An obscenity ordinance and an ordinance to control the sale of syringes were passed Thursday on an emergency basis by the Temple City Commission. The new ordinance pertains to books, magazines, newspapers, drawings, statutes, motion pictures, recordings and individuals. The other ordinance prohibits the reatil sale of hypodermic needles and syringes to persons under 18, and is aimed at controlling the illegal use of drugs.

Firemen Sell Scrap Glass

ROSEBUD

Rosebud Volunteer Fire Department's pumper racing team members have been gathering glass bottles, jars and containers for months, and have sold a load or two, but the one they hauled this week was the largest. The glass is sold to a Waco manufacturer.

Missing Man Turns Up After Search

A 90-year-old man from the Baileyville - Crossroads are was found alive and safe Wednesday after searching parties from Cameron and Rosebud looked for him for nearly 24 hours.

Ira McDaniel had been missing from his home since Monday after he left the house to go work on his land near Pond Creek. He was found Wednesday morning alive, safe and still walking, about three miles from where he started.

The Cameron Volunteer Firemen's rescue unit was called out in the search, and dragged Pond Creek after fears were expressed that McDaniel had perhaps fallen in and drowned.

Also joining in the search were the Milam County Sheriff's Department, the Rosebud Fire Department, and a Department of Public Safety helicopter from the Waco DPS unit, plus other law enforcement officers.

Men on foot, horseback, and in pickups also searched the area, one in which tall weeds made the search difficult.

Oxford City Was Early Land Fraud

An interesting item of early Milam County history came to light this week with the answer to a question asked in a letter from Mrs. Geraldine Chambers Bove of Martinez, California.

The story was told by John Henderson Sr.

Mrs. Bove sent a copy of an old warranty deed to lots in Oxford, Milam County, Texas, and asked where Oxford was. Henderson said the whole deal was an early-day land fraud.

Oxford was supposed to be located between Milano and Gause, where today there is a roadside park, near the Missouri Pacific rail line.

The deed was issued by The Texas Land and Colonization Co. in December of 1887. It was for Lots three and four, 47 and 48 in Block 84, Division H, "each lot being twenty-five feet in front on the East side of Washington Avenue and running back, the same width in the rear as in the front, one hundred feet, in Oxford, according to the plat of said town, as made and recorded by the said Company in the records of said County."

Lots were sold in the east and north part of the country, with promises and pictures of a city hall, schools, churches, and other buildings in the so-called town. People who bought lots in the bogus town were told it was a thriving place.

Railroad workers were aware of the fraud, and the story was told about a man who got on the train at St. Louis and told the train crew he was going to find his lots in Oxford City.

As the crews changed along the line, they told the next crew about the man from St. Louis, and at 2 a.m. the train stopped and let the man out at the supposed location. There he was, out in the post oak brush area with no lights for miles. Needless to say he never found his lots.

As a sequel to the land fraud, Henderson said there are two volumes in the Milam County Courthouse of nothing but deeds for lots in Oxford City, the place that never existed.

Count Rises On Absentee Voting

Applications for absentee voting in the November 7 general election are running ahead of normal, according to Wayne Weiser, Milam County Clerk.

About 125 ballots have been mailed out and a number of residents have voted in person at the clerk's office, Weiser said. Absentee voting opened October 18 and will remain open until November 3.

Persons who will be out of the county on November 7 or who are unable to go to the polls in person are eligible to vote absentee, however a doctor's certificate stating the voter is physically unable to go to the polls is necessary for in-county mailed ballots.

Are Candidates Playing Politics With POWs?

By John Heffernan

WASHINGTON

The plight of American servicemen held prisoner in North Vietnam is coming under increasingly closer national scrutiny amid charges that the men are being used as pawns both by Hanoi and Washington.

Many Americans contend that the government of North Vietnam and the United States, as well as President Nixon and his Democratic opponent in the November presidential election, Sen. George McGovern, are playing politics with the future of these men and their families at home.

For millions of ordinary citizens the Vietnam war has lost much of the emotion it once evoked.

But the fate of the officially listed 539 captured servicemen who remain in captivity bothers the nation's conscience. There could be many more than the list says, since another 1,142 men are still counted as missing, their fate unknown.

North Vietnam has released just a few prisoners and has said that it cannot be expected while the war continues to free other pilots who have bombed the country.

President Nixon, on the other hand, has made release of all the prisoners a fundamental condition to any agreement by the United States to a peace settlement.

McGovern demands that the United States immediately withdraw all its remaining forces from Vietnam in order to obtain the prisoners' freedom, and charges that the Nixon administration is only adding to the number of men in captivity by continuing to send in planes to bomb North Vietnam.

The plight of the prisoners was brought into sharper focus by the recent freeing by North Vietnam of three of their number to an anti-war peace group, which was invited to Hanoi for the purpose.

These men, Navy Lt. Norris A. Charles, Navy Lt. Mark L. Gartley and Air Force Major Edward K. Elias, are now back in the United States undergoing the strict medical examination which awaits their colleagues, too, and, in time, a debriefing.

Their return, a joyous occasion for their families, has been accompanied by considerable controversy and hints that there could be trouble for some prisoners when they return because they have expressed anti-war and sometimes anti-U.S. sentiments while in captivity.

The trend was evident in the release and subsequent journey home of the two lieutenants and Major Elias. At one point Defense Secretary Melvin Laird hinted darkly that there might be some court martials in the offing. Later he appeared to retract that statement and said that any action would be leavened by a great deal of mercy.

Although no accusations have been made against Lieutenants Charles and Gartley or Major Elias, the fact that North Vietnam released them to a group of American peace acitivitists and insisted on their flying home by commercial rather than military aircraft obviously upset Nixon administration officials.

Troubles started when Hanoi first asked Mrs. Cora Weiss and David Dellinger, of (CAPS) the committee of liaison with families of servicemen detained in North Vietnam, to fly to Hanoi to receive the three men. They were accompanied by Lt. Charles' wife, Olga, and Lt. Gartley's mother.

21st Century Proto-type?

Seven percent of the country's population is still rural. The other 93 percent are looking to these open spaces.

Communication and travel what they are, these 14 millions are in the position of producing the foodstuff and fibre, where synthetics have not pre-empted, for about 185 millions more, whose sheer numbers no longer allow prior domination of legislatures, Congress or even county governments.

More than 12,000 Milam Countians live in incorporated towns of Cameron, Rockdale and Thorndale. About 8,000 do not, but they send kids to the larger town schools or are influenced locally by programs and developments beyond pure agriculture. And these are small numbers in comparison to almost any other county of a mixed population and economy.

The net result of agriculture success is assimilation into what has become a metropolitan society, though it is scattered over a country at diverse points 3,000 miles wide and a couple thousand deep.

But, at the same time, the metro society of central city and suburb, 80 percent on 2 percent of the land, see the disadvantages of this society and seek week-end escape, at least, to remoter areas. And every time someone from a city dwelling finds relief in a small town or rural countryside, the less small town or rural things are.

Reduction of the nation's rural population won't go much lower, but those same people will give ground to numbers if only on a parttime basis.

A new kind of non-metro resident, in town or county, will emerge. Given that city cousins want the space out here, and country cousins want the advantages there, the small-city resident may be the proto-type of 21st Century man.

New Government....

Revenue sharing will continue a topic of debate during the new Congress in 1973, assuming the President's re-election, by the polls a safe assumption.

Opposition to revenue sharing, returning to local government some federal income tax, is based on a fear of greater dependence on central government which is operating at enormous deficit.

The idea behind revenue sharing might just be that more sophisticated local government, in most cases better off than federal financed, will be enabled to fill the void once claimed by default by central government.

It is thought that competent city, county and state government, aided by regional planning where regions share common problems, might function better with returned federal funds until the nation's tax structure is reordered top to bottom.

The battle of institutions --church, school, state -- is internecine in such cases, that is one level of government is competing with another for resources to pay for the work it does. As it stands, federal government pre-empts most tax sources that local ad valorem or sales at any level do not.

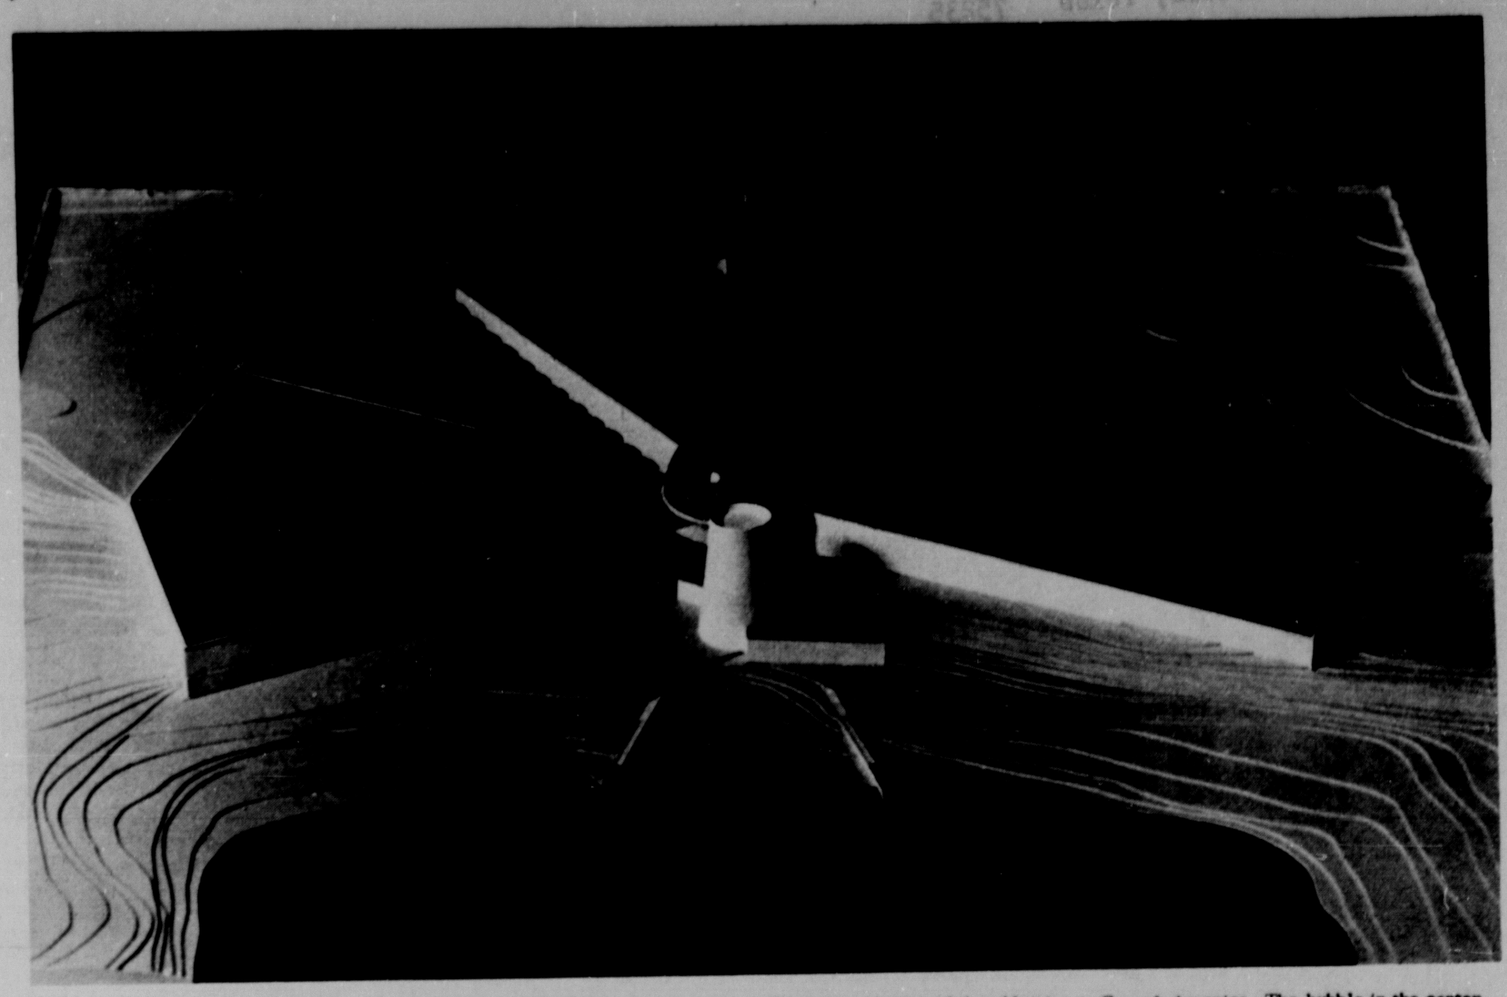
A restructuring is called for, and that means restoring finance in order to pay the bills. The higher competence of local government, the less need for central government. It would seem the President's revenue sharing is aimed at modernizing government and giving local levels a shot at doing it.

But if local and state governments emulate the federal structure, which now suffers chronic problems of size, the deficits may only be shifted to the local levels without closing down on federal deficit.

Milam County and its incorporated towns will receive $270,453 in the next five years in taxes paid to the federal government by Texans. It is by formula. That may put the lid on increased taxes here in some areas.

The question is can economies be invoked at the federal level which, in effect, acknowledge that local government can take these returns and put them to better use than central government?

It will be one of the important debates in the next Congress.



CONTINUING PROTEIN SUPPLY - An idea and design for shrimp farm aquaculture, a method of shrimp farming aimed at increasing the world supply of protein, is one of six winning concepts in the 14th annual Student Design Program sponsored by Aluminum Co. of America. The bubble in the center of the model is the cover for the nursery pond. Its structural support system is extruded aluminum.

Smith Claims Special Session Served Purpose

By--Bill Boykin

Competitive auto and homeowners insurance rating legislation failed to clear the special session, but Gov. Preston Smith claimed the gathering served a purpose.

Smith, disappointed a logjam in conference committee on the session's wind-up night, declined to call lawmakers back to work as he had hinted he might. He said he and legislative leaders decided another session now would be fruitless.

The Governor announced he will make recommendations for "thorough reform" of the insurance regulatory system before he leaves office in January.

"I am hopeful," he said," that, because of the exposure and public attention that this issue has received during the past 30 days, competitive rates and other insurance reforms can and will be approved."

He cited these accomplishments of the session in addition to those which had been wrapped up earlier:

*Establishment of Texas Offshore Terminal Commission to define the role and responsibility of State Government in developing a deep draft offshore port for supertankers.

*Relaxing of trailer and brake lighting requirements for trailers.

*An increase in funds by $1 million for the Anderson County junior college occupational extension center.

*Defining the legal age at which both male and female youth offernders can be tried as adults.

*Appropriation Of $ 211, 372 for a citrus and vegetable training center and improved beef production programs at Texas A&I University.

The Legislature also passed a bill to lower rated in the hurricane windstorm insurance pool for coastal areas. It petitioned Congress for a constitutional convention on an anti-busing amendment.

ALLOWABLE MAINTAINED

For the eight straight month, the statewide oil allowable will be retained at 100 per cent for November.

Production is expected to bi slightly more than 3,500, 000 barrels a day.

Major oil buyers requested 3,753,055 barrels of crude daily next month, a decrease of 23,538 from the October record.

The East Texas field, where an 86 per cent production figure was set, is an exception to the 100 per cent allowable. So is Kelly-Snyder at 76 per cent, Tom O'Conner at 70 per cent and Big Wells at 80 per cent.

Only one of the 15 major crude buyers requested more oil next month than this month, while 11 asked the same amount and three asked less.

Texas crude stocks totalled 97.6 million barrels on October 6, a decrease of 4.2 million from the Oct., 1971, level.

DEATH PENALTY

A bill to restore the death penalty for certain cases of murder started too late to get through the Legislature in special session.

It was knocked out in both the House and Senate because it had not emerged from committees until the last 72 hours of the session.

The legislation sought to permit the death penalty (out lawed by the U.S. Supreme Court) in cases of atrocity murder, murder by hired assassins, murder of prison guards, intentional homicide during kidnapping, rape, burglary, robbery or arson, murder of a policeman or fireman and killings during prison escapes.

BUILDING SHIFT

The State Highway Commission received firm advice from the Legislature to move the proposed site of its controversial new 11-story, $20 million building.

Lawmakers said they don't want the building on the block across the street from the state capitol and governor's mansion. They indicated they prefer an underground parking garage topped by a park on the choice site in downtown Austin.

The legislative resolution recognizes the Highway Department should be compensated for the $1.5 million it on the site and plans. Funds will not be appropriated until next year. Since the Highway Department is pressing for a two-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax increase, it is expected to go along with the Legislature's directive without further argument.

COURTS SPEAK

The Texas Supreme Court upheld lower court verdicts that a Bowie County couple should collect damages due to an explosion at Lone Star Ordnance Plant which damaged their home.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals at Austin affirmed the State Savings and Loan Commissioner's orders permitting creation of savings and loan associations in Bay City and Hallettsville.

AG OPINIONS

A school district may not sell land to a company in which a school trustee owns nearly 10 per cent of the shares. The district can contract with a company which receives its supplies from another in which a trustee owns an inappreciable number of shares.

In another opinion, Martin concluded election code provisions are applicable to water district elections where they are not inconsistent with special statutes controlling the district or the water code.

IRS Has 'Rent Watch' Program For Protection

Despite the Internal Revenue Service's "Rent Watch" Program, those citizens who live in public housing and who receive Social Security may have to pay more rent. "But the increases will be small ones," according to R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue for southern Texas.

"Rent Watch" is the special program IRS has under way to protect Social Security recipients from rent increases.

The Cost of Living Council feared that some landlords might try to take advantage of the 20 percent in Social Security benefits --which became effective October 3 -- by raising rents. IRS has ordered to implement its "Rent Watch" to prevent this.

But "Rents on public housing units that are subject to Federal Control are not covered by Stabilization rent regulations," Phinney said. In most of these units, the rents are adjusted annually to reflect the income of the individual. For example, a renter in one of these may have been receiving $100 a month before the boost in benefits. His rent could have been as high as 25 percent of that, that is, $20. With the 20 percent rise in benefits his or her income would be raised to $120 a month and so the new rent charged would be 20 percent of that figure or $24 - a total increase of $4.

Generally, however, the rent increase is neither automatic nor immediate. Public housing authorities usually review tenants' income situations annually and when that review is made and an increase or decrease found - the rent is then adjusted. The result is that some Social Security recipients will have their rent increased this month, some next month, and so on. Also practices will vary somewhat between different housing authorities.

Phinney offered this advice to those on Social Security living in public housing, "If you have a question, call us. We'll try to help and if we don't have the answer we'll refer you to the proper agency.

Fall Bulb Plantings Mean Flowers In Spring

"For a dash of color in your garden next spring, plant spring flowering bulbs now.

"Purchase bulbs as soon as they are available in garden and nursery centers," asvises Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Early selection will provide you with bulbs that are in prime condition, since the shelf life of many spring flowering bulbs is short."

Hardy bulbs include daffodills, hyacinths, crocus and tulips.

Throughout the southern portion of the state, tulips must be treated as annuals and replaced each year. Precooled bulbs must be purchased as there is insufficient cool weather to form the flowerbud. Most tulip varieties require chilling in cold storage at 40 degrees F. for 60 to 90 days. Plant the bulbs as soon as they are removed from cold storage, advises Janne.

Select bulbs that are firm and free of water-soaked areas. Check for discolored or rough areas as these frequently indicate disease. Avoid those that are moldy or soft and beware of so-called "bargain" bulbs.

"Once you have purchased the needed bulbs, be in no hurry to plant if storage facilities are available," advises Janne. "Hold the bulbs at 40 degrees F. until late November or early December before planting. Be careful that the bulbs do not dry out while in storage."

If instructions are not available, a good rule of thumb is to place the base of the bulb at a depth two to three times the height of the bulb. Plant bulbs in a well-drained area.

"Plant the bulbs so that the different varieties are grouped in masses to provide a good display of color," suggests the Texas A&M University horticulturist. "An effective way to use bulbs is to plant them in flower borders along with perennials. After the bulbs have bloomed, the perennial foliage will hide the maturing bulb foliage as it deteriorates."

Other locations for bulbs are in foundation plantings, around terraces, at driveway entrances, or in woody areas to help naturalize them.

Apply a complete commercial fertilizer such as 8-8-8 or a similar analysis to the planting bed. Three to four pounds per 100 square feet of bed area is sufficient.

With proper planning and preparation, good results can be achieved almost every year with spring flowering bulbs here in the South, even with tulips, adds the horticulturist.

Farm Bureau Convention Approves 18 Resolutions

President Ed Lehmann and vice presidents Morris Coward and H. M. Yager return to another year as Milam Farm Bureau leaders following a county convention Thursday night in Cameron.

About 40 FB members approved 18 resolutions in two-hour discussion on proposals to the Texas Farm Bureau convention in November.

Lehmann presided over the meeting at Methodist Fellowship Hall which followed a membership dinner.

The group approved resolutions ranging from improving the national image of agriculture on television to setting a price support on cottonseed.

Resolutions included approval of:

--Emphasis at state and national level on taking the agriculture story to the consumer in metropolitan areas.

--Dues increase to support "prime time" television sponsorship and other media promotion for agriculture.

--A national right - to - work law.

--Reinstatement of the death penalty.

--Mandatory prison terms for convicted dope pushers.

--Increased federal estate exemption allotment from $60,000 to $250,000 because of inflated costs of land.

--Opposition to any increase in state tax law, maintaining present state sales tax exemptions.

--Acceptance by the state of 100 percent of operating maintenance costs in local school districts, instead of 80 percent.

--Any law to make Texas a "Brucellosis free state."

--Support for a state-wide program to free Texas of hog cholera by Jan. 1, 1974.

--Extension of present disengagement from strict federal acreage allotment controls.

--Allowing executor of administrator of a will or any other appropriate person to do "this simple task" without a lawyer's services.

--Opposition to registration of all "common or popular makes and models of firearms."

--Opposition to all forms of "land use planning controls, programs, etc." from state or federal government.

--Opposition to doing away with use of cyanide guns coyote and wolf control, suggesting the practice be reinstated on private lands.

--Insistance on including one agriculture "producer" on all regulatory agencies which in any way affect agriculture production.

--Discontinuance of the membership requirement for life insurance application.

--Setting support price on cottonseed.

Discussion of resolutions was led by Reeves Brown, speaking for a committee of FB members who drafted most of the proposals. A resolution "opposing any form of welfare" with a few exceptions died for lack of a second. A few of the resolutions came from the floor.

Cotton Fire-Stop Developed

Cotton Incorporated researchers have achieved a major breakthrough in their quest for flame retardant clothing.

Pure cotton garments made from woven or knit fabrics treated with a newly perfected process will surpass the recently imposed federal flame retardance standard for children's sleepwear.

The process-bearing the Cotton Incorporated registered trademark "Fire-Stop Cotton" --makes 100 per cent cotton garments virtually fireproof, with no significant loss in strength and no appreciable change in the feel of the fabric. The flame retardant properties persist beyond the 50 home launderings required by government regulations.

"Fire-Stop Cotton" was unveiled at a news conference held here by officials of Cotton Incorporated, the research, sales and marketing company of America's cotton growers, and United Merchants and Manufacturers, Inc., the nation's third largest textile company.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

Each time you take your children riding with you in your automobile, You should be concerned about car seats.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration suggests you consider the following guidelines when buying a new car seat or in evaluating one that was previously purchased.

Although many people still use them, seats that hook over the back of the seat of your car are usually not safe. Besides the possibility that this type of seat may not stay attached if you come to a quick stop, normally it does not give the child protection against whiplash injury.

The child's seat should give protection from front and rear crashes, cushioning the child and preventing him from being thrown free. The seat's restraint belts should be at least 1 1/2 inches wide. The child's upper body should be restrained by belts or an impact pad.

Watch out for any seat constructed of easily bent, flimsy, bare metal strapping or padded only with thin sponge rubber. This type of seat often is extremely hazardous. Also avoid any seats made with sharp or pointed hardware that is not protected.

Make sure you use the right type of restraining system for the size and age of your child. Infants up to nine months can be placed in an infant car bed or infant carrier. Children eight or nine months up through four years will be safe in a child car seat or a child harness. Vehicle lap belts and shoulder belts should be worn by children four to five years old who are at least 55 inches in height.

A very informative booklet concerning the purchase of car seats entitled, "What to Buy in Child Restraint Systems," is available for 20 cents. Write to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., 20402.

And while you're checking to see if your children are safe, make sure to buckle up your own lap and shoulder belt. You'll set a good example while insuring your own safety.

Accent on Health

You've heard it said that curiosity can kill a cat.

It also can kill a child and is doing so, say state health officials, thousands of times each year in this country.

More than 500,000 children -- like the little girl next door or the toddler in your own home -- will swallow poison this year. Most cases reported will involve children under five years of age. Sadly, virtually all of these poisonings are preventable.

In Texas last year, there were nearly 200 fatal poisonings listed as accidental. According to figures released by the National Safety Council, there were 4,000 fatal poisonings in the United States. Of this total, over three - fourths occurred at home.

The reason behind this extremely high percentage of home accidents is simple. Common household products --those used for housekeeping and medicinal purposes -- represent the greatest potential hazards. Among these are detergents, furniture polishes and waxes, drain and bowl cleaners, lighter fluids, and pesticides. Add to this list all the medicines kept in your medicine cabinet -- from aspirins to tranquilizers.

There are approximately a quarter-million products available to the American public for use in the home or around the house. These help lighten the housekeeping load, but when swallowed or ingested in certain amounts they can kill.

Almost half the child poisonings involve aspirins. Tranquilzers also rank high as a chief poisoner of youngsters. Physicians and state health officials recommend that when you give a child medicine, you should never tell him it is "candy." He'll go for the "candy" when you're out of the room. All medicines should be treated as medicines. And all medicines should be bought in child-proof containers.

The more than 6,000 pharmacists in Texas were among the first to implement the Poison Prevention Packaging Act, federal legislation enacted to provide special packaging for the protection of small children.

For over a month, pharmacists in Texas have been dispensing all prescription orders calling for aspirin-containing medications in special child - resistant containers. These containers are designed so that small children cannot open them, although adults can.

The 4,300 drugs subject to abuse -- narcotics, stimulants and sedatives -- will be the next substances requiring dispensing in such containers, effective October 24.

The Food and Drug Administration has indicated that all prescription drugs taken orally will require child - resistant packaging early in 1973.

Dolph Briscoe Continues Heavy Campaign Activity

Heavy campaign activity during this week will take Dolph Briscoe to Dallas, Houston, El Paso, and the Panhandle, as well as a number of stops in between.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate last week spoke to the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals in Fort Worth and at a shrimp boil held in his honor by the Orange County Democratic Executive Committee.

Following his Fort Worth appearance last Tuesday, Briscoe flew to Brownsville for a reception, made a brief appearance at the San Benito City Hall, then spoke to the Cameron County Farm Bureau.

"It is a sad fact today that there is a great oversupply of people in some professions, and at the same time an extreme shortage of skilled workers," Briscoe told the secondary school principals, observing it was a paradox to have such an acute shortage of skilled workers on one hand while having acute poverty and large numbers of people on relief at the same time.

The Uvalde rancher-banker went on to say, "I think we need to prepare ourselves and our institutions for change." He called for educational alternatives to the young today and called for career-oriented education to become a full partner in our education system.

This Tuesday, Briscoe opened his heavy week of campaigning at a barbecue in Seguin sponsored by the Guadalupe County Democratic Executive Committee. Mrs. Jane Blumberg, Democratic national committeewoman, was in charge of arrangements.

On Wednesday, the Democratic nominee was to speak to the Dallas Rotary Club at noon, then fly to Houston to attend a mid-afternoon coffee. He was scheduled to be the principal speaker at the Texas Soil and Water Conservation Board's statewide meeting in the evening.

On Thursday, Briscoe was to speak to the Houston Rotary Club at the Rice Hotel, then leave for Amarillo where he was to spend the afternoon with supporters and campaign workers before addressing the T-Bone Club at a dinner.

On Friday, he was scheduled for a coffee arranged for him at Pampa at 10:00 AM, then to appear as speaker at a luncheon in Borger before returning to Uvalde.

The week's effort will come to an end on Saturday afternoon in El Paso where he and Sheriff Mike Sullivan were to be honored at an "invitation only" barbecue sponsored by the Sheriff's Department.

Drug Abuse Program Set At Local Church

A program concerning the dangers of drug abuse will be presented at First Assembly of God on Thursday, October 26 at 7 p.m. Featured will be a staff member from the Teen Challenge Training Center in Rehrersburg, Pennsylvania.

Teen Challenge is a non-profit Christian oriented program dealing with the basic problems that turn young men and women to drugs and delinquency. Founded by the Rev. David Wilkerson in 1958, Teen Challenge has now become one of the largest drug rehabilitation programs in the world with fifty centers established throughout the United States and abroad.

For many years the best of the professionals claimed that there was no hope for a drug addict. At Teen Challenge this has become a great fallacy. Their belief is that through a personal and total commitment to God an individual can be relieved of the problems that first led him to become involved with drugs.

Approximately 65 to 70 percent of those completing the program, men, women, boys, and girls, do not return to the bondage of drug addiction.

Test to Save Lives

Fifty per cent of Texas' fatal traffic accidents involve drinking drivers, says the Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project. The breath test, used to show the amount of alcohol . . . if any . . . in a driver's blood, is an effective tool in the concentrated effort being made to reduce the number of motor fatalities in Texas.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hollas honored the couple on their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday with a reception and family dinner.

Friends and relatives attended the dinner at Simon-George Hall following a Mass where Mr. and Mrs. Hollas renewed their wedding vows. Over 200 guests honored the couple at the reception at Cameron Community Center Sunday afternoon.

The couples' wedding picture and a floral arrangement of yellow and white flowers encircled, with gold candles, were on the registration table. A handmade white satin cloth, adorned with sequins gold bells, covered the table. The cloth was made by the couples' daughter, Mrs. Douglas Beck of Temple. Granddaughters Linda and Judy Hollas registered guests.

White roses and gold bells decorated the three-tiered anniversary cake, made by Mrs. George Hollas. A gold cloth covered with a white crocheted coverlet adorned the serving table. Golden punch and cake were served by Mrs. James Liptai of Houston, Mrs. Henry Karnowski of Victoria and Mrs. Tom Raborn and Mrs. Eugene Halterman both of Belton.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

A fisherman who likes to try different water can very easily wind up with a pocketfull of expensive licenses. Those anglers who like to fish the lakes bordering their states really have a problem.

Texas and Louisiana anglers are fortunate. Heads of these two states worked out a reciprocal program for the waters of Toledo Bend, on the Sabine River—the stream that forms the natural boundary between Texas and Louisiana. Each state has agreed to honor the license of the other while fishing on this fabulous reservoir which covers some 200,000 acres when full.

Non-resident fishermen already had a good deal with Texas' universal fishing license costing the same to them as to Texans . . . . $2.15 a year . . . . and covering the Gulf as well as all Texas waters (excepting, of course, private ponds). Now, with their Texas license, they can also fish the Louisiana side of Toledo Bend.

Both Texas and Louisiana stocked Toledo Bend Reservoir heavily with largemouth black bass in the very beginning. Louisiana put in 1,800,000 and Texas put in 1,500,000. These, of course, were in addition to the natural spawn from fish native to the river.

In one year those bass grew to two and three pounds each and now they are of jumbo size.

The lake's popularity with anglers still exceeds its facilities. But more and more accommodations are being provided as fast as possible. There are several good facilities near the dam, reached through Jasper and Burkville on the Texas side.

More and more facilities are being installed as rapidly as possible on the upper end. This area is reached out of St. Augustine. A multi-million dollar causeway has been constructed across the lake here, connecting San Augustine, Texas, with Many, Louisiana.

For the bait fisherman, minnow and worm stands are available at both ends of the lake. Early fishing, for the most part, was done from the flat-bottom john boats so prevalent in both east Texas and Louisiana.

However, larger boats now are being towed to the lake every day for some of the best fishing of either state from the Sam Rayburn reservoir.

Every week now the newspapers and the adjacent areas publish many pictures of large fish taken from this fantastic lake. Because of the reciprocal license agreement, Texas fishermen flock to the other side, and in turn Louisiana anglers head this way. (Greener pastures, you know.)

A word of warning, however, don't try to fish the lake without any license. Working the area are very active game wardens from each state. They are friendly but firm.

Yoemen Fall ToGatesville

By Marilyn Hauk

The Cameron Yoemen were defeated by the Gatesville Hornets Friday night for their first loss of the season.

In the first quarter Cameron kicked off to Gatesville but neither team managed any serious scoring threats.

Gatesville started out with the ball in the second quarter but Cameron recovered a fumble after two plays.

After a Cameron punt Gatesville took the ball at their own 47-yard line to start their scoring drive. At the Cameron 28 Jonnie Gann passed Billy Batlepp for a touchdown. The PAT attempt was incomplete.

Gatesville then kicked off to Cameron but after four plays Gatesville recovered the ball. From the Cameron-25 Gann passed to Tommy Davidson for possession at the Cameron-3. Gann then ran the ball across to complete a touchdown making the score 12-0. The PAT once again was incomplete.

Gatesville kicked off to the Yoemen at the half but after two plays Gatesville recovered the ball. From the Cameron 33 Gatesville drove the ball to the Cameron 2. Randy Smith scored making the score 18-0. The Yoemen blocked the PAT

After Gatesville's kickoff the Yoemen started moving the ball. They drove the ball from the Cameron 35 to the Gatesville 20. Stanley Rosemund passed to Jackie Chubb to make the score 18-7. Gene Kopriva kicked the PAT for 18-7.

After Gatesville's bout with ball they fumbled at the Cameron 39. Cameron drove to the Cameron 1 and Roland Young carried the ball across for a score of 18-13. Will Turner passed to Chubb for two points for a score of 18-15.

In the fourth quarter Cameron penetrated to the Gatesville 15 but the pass was intercepted in the end zone.

Just a Little

You don't have to be totally drunk to be dangerous behind the wheel of an automobile. There is ample evidence to prove that as few as two drinks or two beers is sufficient to produce a definite impairment of judgment, vision, and reaction in some drivers. Watch yourself and your drinking. "Just a little too much can be fatal" warns the Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project.

Republican 'Fraud Squad' Primed

Sometimes a vote is not a vote--and that's what a group of concerned citizens have set about changing for the Presidential election, Tuesday, Nov. 7. In the past, there have been instances when a vote has been disregarded, even when the intent was clear, because of a minor technicality. This, then, is not in the interest of the voter and his rights --so action has been taken.

A State Voter Rights Committee has been formed, with an El Paso attorney, Alan V. Rash, at the head.

Six-Way Battle Forms For Texas 500

COLLEGE STATION

The Texas 500 set for Sunday, November 12th will be a six-way battle between automobile nameplates. Entries from the big three automobile manufacturers include; Dodge, Plymouth, Ford, Mercury, Chevrolet, and Pontiac with any one of the six makes capable of producing a winner.

Buddy Baker, two - time World 600 winner from Charlotte, N.C. leads the Dodge ranks in the K&K Insurance entry prepared by Harry Hyde. Plymouth driver Richard Petty will be seeking his third victory at the Texas facility when action hits the 2-mile, high banked oval. The Randleman, N.C. native will also be trying for his fourth Grand National title in the final event of the Winston Cup Series.

Ford is represented by this year's Talladega 500 winner, James Hylton. Hylton who hails from Inman, S.C. has been runner-up in the Grand National point standings three times in the past.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, Texas has already beaten the NASCAR boys in 500-milers at Daytona and Ontario earlier this year, and is scheduled to return to the stock car circuit in a Wood Brothers Mercury. Foyt the winningest driver in the history of automobile racing has won in every type of machinery that he has ever driven.

Bobby Allison and his Coca-Cola sponsored Chevrolet have been the most consistant combination on the NASCAR trail this season. Winner of seven super speedway events last year, the Hueytown, Ala. chauffer has also taken the checkered flag on seven occasions this year. Allison will be making his final bid to clinch the Winston Cup title from Petty.

Pontiac can definitely be considered a strong threat in the Texas 500 with the entry of H. B. Bailey of Houston, Texas in the Vernon Blank prepared GTO. Bailey brought the Big Chief home to a fifth place finish in the Southern 500 at Darlington after leading during the early stages. He recently finished second in The Royal Triton ARCA 300 at the Texas World Speedway in his own 1972 Firebird.

Over 60 entries have already been received for the 500-mile classic that is expected to be the most competitive race of the season.

PENSKE On Performance

Denny Hulme, winner of more Can-Am races than anyone, turned the tables on us at Watkins Glen. Not only that, but his McLaren teammate, Peter Revson, finished third.

Our Penske-Porsche simply did not run well all weekend, although George Follmer managed to qualify it in third place on the starting grid.

Race day was hot and muggy, and with the race only minutes old, several drivers began to suffer from the heat. The race also was hot for quite a few laps, with Revson, Francois Cevert, David Hobbs and Follmer challenging Hulme for the lead.

Denny's McLaren finished first and we finished fifth.

When our car was unveiled earlier this year, many experts said that we would run away with the Can-Am series. A look at the standings proves otherwise. Although we finished all of the first three races, Hulme and Milt Minter, in another Porsche were ahead of us in the SCCA point standings. Follmer is currently second.
